FBH kids, teens celebrate school year

DAYTONA BEACH – Participants of Food Brings Hope afterschool programs, KidsZone for elementary schools and TeenZone for the middle and high schools, recently attended the annual End-of-the-Year Celebration at the News-Journal Center.

The celebration kicked off with more than 400 students and chaperones gathering in the lobby of the News-Journal Center for pizza and drinks, catered and donated by Sodexo Campus Services. After eating, schools were ushered to the auditorium to begin the program which included an FBH Awards celebration and a Talent Showcase.

Of the 16 FBH partnered schools, 15 were in attendance. Those schools included McInnis, Osceola, Pierson, Starke, Turie T. Small, Westside elementary schools; Campbell, Holly Hill, New Smyrna Beach, Ormond Beach, Southwestern middle schools; and Atlantic, Taylor

Middle-High, Mainland, and Spruce Creek high schools.

Principals in attendance included Jim Tager, Atlantic High; Richard T. Myers, Holly Hill School; Alba Perez, McInnis Elementary; Kevin Flagg, Osceola Elementary; Willie Williams, Westside Elementary; and Stephen Hinson, Turie T. Small Elementary. Other special guests included FBH Advisory Board members Fred Costello and Bill Ward.

Mainland High School student, Michelle Marie, a former American Idol participant, was the featured performer for the FBH Talent Showcase. Marie also shared a few words of encouragement and answered questions from the students.

The Talent Showcase featured student acts from 11 of the 15 schools in attendance. Those acts included, singers, dancers, step teams, musicians, and a photographer. Each school took home a plaque recognizing their participation in the show.

Citizenship of the Year awards were presented to a student from each school for positive attitude, dedication and willingness to help others throughout the school year. The recipients were selected by Forough B. Hosseini, FBH founder and chair, and Judi Winch, FBH executive director.

Priscilla Sparks was recognized as Volunteer of the Year and Southwestern Middle School was awarded the Site of the Year award.

"On behalf of Food Brings Hope, I would like to extend a heartfelt thanks to the principals, teachers, volunteers, and companies who help us each year to nourish the brilliant young minds of the students we have the honor of helping," said Hosseini. "Each year we have been blessed with more opportunities to grow and serve additional disadvantaged students through the generosity and support of our community."
